

Hong Kong Green Organisation Certification

10/09/2019

Summary

Beyond our commitment to integrating ESG factors into all investment decisions and asset classes, AllianzGI also recognises the importance of preserving the natural environment in order to create a sustainable society for our future generation.

Since it was established mid last year, our eco-friendly working group has been finding ways to raise awareness on environmental protection among our colleagues in the Asia-Pacific region and create a greener and more sustainable work environment for our people to thrive in.

Our Hong Kong office was awarded the “Hong Kong Green Organisation Certification (HKGOC) – Wastewise Certificate” and “- Energywise Certificate” this year in recognition of our active participation in adopting various environmental practices and promoting a green workplace.

HKGOC is led by the Environmental Campaign Committee alongside the Environmental Protection Department. The programme aims to set benchmark for companies in their green commitment and encourage environmental practices in workplace.

“Looking ahead, our ultimate goal is to be certified as Hong Kong Green Organisation. We will continue to look into ways to sustain our business operations with green practices which would take a concerted effort from everyone for this to succeed,” said Ernice Ip, who leads the regional implementation of eco-friendly initiatives.

Information herein is based on sources we believe to be accurate and reliable as at the date it was made. We reserve the right to revise any information herein at any time without notice. No offer or solicitation to buy or sell securities and no investment advice or recommendation is made herein. In making investment decisions, investors should not rely solely on this but should seek independent professional advice.

There is no guarantee that these investment strategies and processes will be effective under all market conditions and investors should evaluate their ability to invest for a long-term based on their individual risk profile especially during periods of downturn in the market.

Investing in fixed income instruments (if applicable) may expose investors to various risks, including but not limited to creditworthiness, interest rate, liquidity and restricted flexibility risks. Changes to the economic environment and market conditions may affect these risks, resulting in an adverse effect to the value of the investment. During periods of rising nominal interest rates, the values of fixed income instruments (including short positions with respect to fixed income instruments) are generally expected to decline. Conversely, during periods of declining interest rates, the values are generally expected to rise. Liquidity risk may possibly delay or prevent account withdrawals or redemptions.

Investment involves risks, in particular, risks associated with investment in emerging and less developed markets. Past performance, or any prediction, projection or forecast, is not indicative of future performance.
